

2254 Ararat-St Arnaud Rd, Landsborough

Go Your Own Way

The small and peaceful town of Landsborough in the northern foothills of the Pyrenees Ranges is an affordable get away location for anybody looking to relocate permanently or maybe wanting that special place on a few acres for family holidays and gatherings far away from crowds, traffic and stress.

The old farmhouse with shady verandahs all round sits on eleven and a half acres with plenty of established trees, open space, mature fruit trees, big old sheds, a four bay carport and big rain water tanks.

Rambling about inside are the entrance hall, three double bedrooms all with overhead fans, galley kitchen with gas cooking adjoining the big family dining space boasting its own house and bum warming combustion stove and adjoins a spacious separate carpeted lounge with ornate plaster features.

Also includes two bathrooms, internal toilet, external laundry with double concrete troughs and copper. The smaller shed is nine and a half by four and a half metres and the American style barn with mezzanine is twelve by six metres. Escape for $349,000
